Contributors

Paul Ardoin is in doctoral work at Florida State University, with a focus on international Modernism. Forthcoming publications include articles on the Romantic artist in Melville and the death of the artist in Nabokov.

Harry Aveling holds an adjunct appointment as Professor of Translation and Interpreting Studies at Monash University. He has a PhD from the National University of Singapore and a DCA from the University of Technology, Sydney.

Lisa Bennett is a PhD candidate and part-time teacher in the department of English, Creative Writing and Australian Studies at Flinders University. Lisa is a web editor and designer for Transnational Literature.

Sue Bond writes short stories, essays, memoir and book reviews, and is currently the book reviews editor for M/C Reviews. She has degrees in medicine, literature and creative writing, and an erratically maintained blog at http://thewordygecko.wordpress.com.

Mary Byrne was born in Ireland and currently works as a translator and editor in France. Her short fiction has been published in Ireland, England, United States and Canada, and has been anthologised in several collections. She has broadcast several nonfiction series on Vienna and Morocco on Irish national radio (RTE), and written travel pieces in Sunday Tribune & Sunday Business Post (Ireland). She has won the Hennessy Literary Award (Ireland) and the Bourse Lawrence Durrell de la Ville d’Antibes.

Michelle Cahill is an Indian writer who lives in Sydney. Her work has appeared in World Literature Today, Famous Reporter and Antipodes. She received an Australia Council grant to work on her novel during a residency at Sanskriti Kendra, New Delhi.

Chew Yi Wei is a PhD student at the National University of Singapore. Her interests include transnational film, Singapore Literature in English, religion in the English Renaissance and the politics of AIDS in the literary and performing arts.

Julian Croft was born in Newcastle in 1941 and educated there. He has held academic appointments in Africa and Australia, and is presently retired and living in Armidale, Northern New South Wales. He has published several books of poetry and a novel.

Sanghamitra Dalal is a PhD student in the Centre for Postcolonial Writing, School of English, Communications and Performance Studies, Monash University, Australia.

Contributors.

Transnational Literature
Volume 3, no. 1, November 2010

and a contributor to the Routledge Annotated Bibliography of English Studies (ABES) in the Postcolonial Literature section.

Gillian Dooley is the editor of Transnational Literature. Her latest book is J.M. Coetzee and the Power of Narrative (Cambria, 2010).

A.N. Dwivedi is an award-winning poet. Presently, he is Professor and Chairman of the Department of English, Taiz University at Al-Turba, Republic of Yemen. He has published a number of scholarly papers and books, and is a member of the Transnational Literature Advisory Board.

Vivek Kumar Dwivedi, a teacher at the University of Allahabad, has written a book The Other Truth published from Germany. He is an avid reader of inspirational, fiction, criticism and biography books. He attends writing workshops and seminars.

Brian Edwards writes poetry, fiction and criticism. His books include Theories of Play and Postmodern Fiction (Garland) and, most recently, In the Real World (Papyrus), a collection of poetry. He is working on a study of recent fiction's uses of history.

Jodie George is a researcher and lecturer with the University of South Australia. Her research is concerned with cultural geography, the creative arts, and affect, examining the emotive experience of existence at the intersections of cultures. Through this, she questions the possibilities for identity in shifting social settings, and the use of creativity to articulate, challenge and negotiate these narratives.

Dr Kerryn Goldsworthy is a freelance writer and independent scholar, a former senior lecturer at the University of Melbourne, and a former editor of Australian Book Review. She is the author of two books and the editor of four, was on the editorial team that produced The Macquarie PEN Anthology of Australian Literature, and is currently writing a book about Adelaide.

Jena Habegger-Conti received her PhD in Comparative Literature from the University of Toronto and teaches British Literature at the University of Bergen. She is a member of the Nordic Network of Literary Transculturation Studies and her current research focuses on space as an organizing principle in transcultural narratives.

Chad Habel completed his PhD on ancestry in the works of Thomas Keneally and Christopher Koch in 2006. He is now the Coordinator of the Student Development Program at the University of Adelaide; for more information, please visit http://www.adelaide.edu.au/directory/chad.habel. His research interests include: the provision of academic support in tertiary institutions; academic self-efficacy and approaches to learning; Australian, Irish, and Irish-Australian literature; and national and gender identity in literature.
Md. Rezaul Haque is presently working on his PhD at Flinders University. His research focus is how Indian historical fiction in English has been used for (re-)imagining the Indian nation. He is a Transnational Literature sub-editor.

Syd Harrex is a foundation member of the Flinders University English staff, long-term foundation Director of CRNLE, and widely published author of books and essays on post-colonial new literatures. He has also published six volumes of poetry, the most recent being Dougie’s Ton and 99 Other Sonnets (Lythrum Press, 2007). Syd is a member of the Transnational Literature Advisory Board.

Kay Hart is a freelance writer and nearing completion of a Diploma of Arts: Professional Writing & Editing at RMIT University. Her other interests are photography, reading, maintaining a journal, gardening, walking with her dog, Sam. She has a blog at http://www.talewaggercreations.tumblr.com

Dong Isbister holds a doctorate in Women’s Studies and a graduate degree in Literatures in English. Her specializations include Women and Im/migration, Asian Diaspora, and U.S. Multi-ethnic Literature and Visual Narratives. She has taught Women Writers at the Ohio State University, presented papers and read her poetry at conferences, and published articles on Asian American women writers or artists.

Rajender Kaur teaches English at William Paterson University, NJ. Her primary research is on the Literature of the Bengal Famine of 1943 and she works on issues of social justice, gender, class, and culture issues in South Asian Literatures. Her current book projects South Asians in North America: A Documentary History will be published by Rutgers UP in 2012.

Rajyashree Khushu-Lahiri is a faculty member in English in the Humanities and Social Science Department at the Indian Institute of Technology, Roorkee, India. Her areas of interest are postcolonial studies, gender studies and American studies.

Ron Klein is a professor of English at Hiroshima Jogakuin University, Japan. He has edited two volumes of interviews of Singapore writers and is the author of The Other Empire: Literary Views of Japan from the Philippine, Singapore and Malaysian (2008). He is a member of Transnational Literature’s Advisory Board.

Robert Lumsden has taught for extensive periods at several Singapore universities, has recently published Reading Literature after Deconstruction with Cambria Press, and is currently researching a book on reader response theory and working on his second novel.

Russell McDougall was born in Newcastle in 1954. He is the Convenor of the English Discipline in the School of Arts at the University of New England. He co-edited (with Peter Hulme) Writing, Travel, Empire (I.B. Tauris, 2007), and (with Iain Davidson) The Roth Family, Anthropology, and Colonial Administration (Left Coast Press, 2008).

Aliese Millington holds a PhD in Ethnomusicology from the University of Adelaide, works in Special Collections, Flinders University Library and performs as LeighStarDust. Her current research interests include library and information studies education and the crossover between Western art and popular musics.

Molly Murn is completing a Master of Creative Arts at Flinders University, where she also teaches part-time in English and Creative Writing. Molly is passionate about reading and writing poetry as a way to make sense of the world. Molly is a Transnational Literature sub-editor.

Satendra Nandan teaches at The University of Fiji. His latest book Beyond Paradise: Rights of Passage was launched during the Fiji Day weekend, 10 October 2010, by the Chief Justice of Fiji, Hon. Mr Anthony Gates. He was born in Nadi, Fiji, and is currently living near Nadi International Airport. Satendra is a member of the Transnational Literature Advisory Board.

Nathanael O’Reilly was born in Warrnambool and raised in Ballarat, Brisbane and Shepparton. He has lived in England, Ireland, Germany, Ukraine and the United States, where he currently resides. His poetry has appeared in numerous journals, including Antipodes, Harvest, Windmills, LiNQ, Postcolonial Text, Transnational Literature, Prosopisia, Page Seventeen and Blackmail Press. He is the author of the chapbook Symptoms of Homesickness (Picaro Press, 2010; reviewed this issue of TNL) and the recipient of an Emerging Writers Grant from the Literature Board of the Australia Council.

Jennifer Osborn is the Research Librarian for English, French, Classics and German at the University of Adelaide Library; she has over twenty years’ experience working in academic libraries, and many more years reading and critiquing French and English literature.

Gary Pearce has a PhD in Irish modernist literature. He is Media and Communication librarian at RMIT University Library.

Mohammad A. Quayum is professor of English at the International Islamic University Malaysia, and has taught at universities in Bangladesh, Malaysia, Singapore and the United States. He is the author or editor of 21 books, most recently A Rainbow Feast: New Asian Short Stories (Singapore: Marshall Cavendish. 2010).
His essays on American literature and Postcolonial literatures have appeared in leading literary journals in Australia, Canada, India, Malaysia, Singapore, South Africa, Taiwan, the UK and the USA. He has two books on Rabindranath Tagore and a book on Asia-Pacific literatures forthcoming in 2011. Mohammad is a member of the Transnational Literature Advisory Board.

Dr Shweta Rao is an Assistant Professor in English in the Department of Humanities and Social Sciences at IIT Mandi in India. Her areas of interest are Food and Cultural Studies and Creative Writing.

Formerly an adjunct professor with the School of Global Science, Social and Planning at RMIT University, Loula Rodopoulos commenced writing poetry and short stories in the mountains of the Peloponnese Greece – her refuge from professional activities in Australia. Her poems have been published/accepted in various formats and include the Australian Women’s Book Review, Poetrix, Positive Words, Famous Reporter, Poetica Christi Press and Transnational Literature. In 2010 she was short listed in the All Poetry Competition; commended in Eastwood Hills FAW Literary Competition and feature poet in POAM.

Christine Runnel is a PhD research student in English (Creative Writing) at Flinders University, South Australia. Her creative project is a work of contemporary fantastic fiction called Under the Freeway, with the focus on the mode as a vehicle for transculturalism. Her current research finds inspiration in anime and the lines of the popular authors Murakami Haruki, César Aira and Audrey Niffenegger. The overarching leitmotif comes from Salman Rushdie’s Midnight’s Children: ‘A death makes the living see themselves too clearly; after they have been in its presence, they become exaggerated.’ Christine is a Transnational Literature sub-editor.

Frank Russo has an MA in Writing from the University of Technology, Sydney. His fiction has been published in Southerly, The Australian, in various anthologies and broadcast on radio. The manuscript for his novel Eating for the Dead was short-listed for the Vogel/The Australian Prize and a subsequent novel commended for the same prize.

Susan Sheridan is Adjunct Professor of English and Women’s Studies at Flinders University. She has published widely on women’s writing, feminist cultural studies and Australian cultural history; her forthcoming book, Nine Lives: Postwar women writers making their mark (UQP), is about the early careers of Dorothy Hewett and eight of her contemporaries. Susan is a member of the Transnational Literature Advisory Board.

Keren Shlezinger is a PhD candidate in Comparative Literature at Monash University. She has written a study guide for Mohsin Hamid’s Reluctant Fundamentalist (Insight Publications, 2010) and is currently researching solitude in the works of Maurice Blanchot and J.M. Coetzee.

Ian C. Smith lives in the Gippsland Lakes region of Victoria. His work has appeared... recently in The Best Australian Poetry, Cordite, Eureka Street, Island, Sleepers Almanac, Southerly, & Westerly. His most recent book is Lost Language of the Heart published by Ginninderra.

Dr Ruth Starke is Writer in Residence in the Department of English, Creative Writing and Australian Studies at Flinders University, and an award-winning writer for children and young adults.

David C. Tneh is a Malaysian poet and academician whose creative writings have been published in Malaysia, Singapore, Hong Kong, Australia and the United States. His poetry has been published in anthologies and international journals such as the Asiatic, Cha: An Asian Literary Journal, and In Our Own Words Vol. 7 (2007). He is currently a faculty member of the Faculty of Creative Industries, Universiti Tunku Abdul Rahman (UTAR).

Dr Nick Turner is an Associate Lecturer at Manchester Metropolitan University, UK. He is the author of Post-War British Women Novelists and the Canon (Continuum, 2010).

Kenneth Usongo is Senior Lecturer of English Literature at the University of Dschang, Cameroon. He has published sixteen essays on English, African and American literatures as book chapters and in journals like Quodlibet: The Australian Journal of Trans-national Writing; Journal of African Literature and Culture; Alizés; Langues et Littératures; Annals of the Faculty of Arts, Letters & Social Sciences; and nka. Kenneth is a member of the Transnational Literature Advisory Board.

Christine Williams is the author of four biographical works, including the first biography of novelist Christina Stead, and has been published in Australia, England and India. She has a special interest in relationships and identity in life-writing, having researched the life of the Indian philosopher, Jiddu Krishnamurti, for her Doctorate from UTS. She also holds an MA from the University of Sydney. Christine has won the NSW History Fellowship, and she shared the National Trust of Australia Cultural History Award in 2007 for her biographical work, Green Power: Environmentalists who have changed the face of Australia. Currently she is Director of the Sydney School of Arts & Humanities and is working on an ebook of her biographical blog on cricketer Sachin Tendulkar, www.searchingforsachin.net/

Lesley Wyndram works as an administrator at Flinders University. Her Honours thesis, Calling Australia Home, examined literary representations of the migrant experience by Asian-Australian writers.

Abbas Zaidi is a Pakistani writer and journalist based in Brunei Darussalam, where he teaches English. His short stories have appeared, inter alia, in New York Press, Exquisite Corpse, New Partisan, Eclectica, Salt River Review, Best of GOWANUS, and The Journal of Postcolonial Cultures and Societies. He is a Review Editor for The Journal of Postcolonial Cultures and Societies, and Asian Editor of GOWANUS. He has recently completed a PhD in socioligistics.
Debra Zott (Deb Matthews-Zott) is an Adelaide poet and librarian and a member of the Transnational Literature Editorial Board. Her second collection of poetry, Slow Notes, was published by Ginninderra Press in 2008. She is currently working on a verse novel, An Adelaide Boy, and experimenting with audio and video poetry http://ccmixter.org/people/debbizo