(2) An employee whose salary does not exceed two hundred and sixty pounds a year may within three months after he becomes an employee elect to contribute for units or half units in addition to those prescribed in subsection (1) of this section to make up a total number of two and a half, three, three and a half, four or five units.

24a. (1) Every person who is a contributor to the fund on the day of the passing of the Superannuation Act Amendment Act, 1948—

(a) shall, subject to this Act, continue to contribute for the units for which he is contributing on that day:

(b) if the rate of his salary on that day exceeds six hundred and seventy-six pounds, may elect within two months after that day to contribute for all, some or none of the units appropriate to his salary, in excess of twelve.
(2) Where a contributor—

(a) was at the time of the passing of the Superannuation Act Amendment Act, 1948, contributing for twelve units; and

(b) was at that time fifty years of age or more; and

(c) has elected under this section to contribute for units in excess of twelve, then the rate of contribution for half of the units to which the election applies shall be the rate which would be payable for those units pursuant to this Act if the age of the contributor at the time when he commenced to contribute for those units was—

(i.) forty-nine; or

(ii.) his age when he first received salary at a rate exceeding six hundred and seventy-six pounds a year, whichever is greater.

24b. (1) A male person—

(a) who is appointed after the passing of the Superannuation Act Amendment Act, 1948, as an officer of the public service under the Public Service Act, 1936-1947, or as a teacher under the Education Act, 1915-1948, or as a salaried railways officer under the South Australian Railways Commissioner’s Act, 1936-1941; and

(b) who at the time of his appointment is under forty years of age, shall contribute for four units, or if the number of units appropriate to his salary is less than four units, for the number of units appropriate to his salary, and may within two months after his appointment elect to contribute for all, some or none of the units appropriate to his salary at the time of appointment, in excess of four.

(2) A person becoming an employee, other than an employee described in paragraphs (a) and (b) of subsection (1) of this section, after the passing of the Superannuation Act Amendment Act, 1948, may within two months after he becomes an employee elect to contribute for all, some, or none of the units appropriate to his salary at the time when he became an employee.

(3) Subsection (1) of this section shall apply to any person who, being under forty years of age is appointed as an officer of the Public Service, a teacher or a salaried railways officer within the meaning of subsection (1) of this section and who immediately before that appointment was employed by the Government in any other capacity and was then contributing for less than the number of units appropriate to his salary or for no units.

24ba. (1) Where the salary of a male contributor—

(a) who is an officer of the Public Service appointed under the Public Service Act, 1936-1947, or a teacher appointed under the Education Act, 1915-1948, or a salaried railways officer appointed under the South Australian Railways Commissioner's Act, and

(b) who at the time of the increase of his salary is under forty years of age—is increased so as to fall within a higher salary group, as prescribed in section 24 of this Act, the following provisions shall apply:—

(i.) If the contributor was immediately before the increase of salary contributing for less than four units, and the total number of units appropriate to his increased salary does not exceed four, he shall contribute for the number of units appropriate to his increased salary:

(ii.) If the contributor was immediately before the increase of salary, contributing for less than four units and the total number of units appropriate to his increased salary exceeds four, he shall contribute for four units, and may elect to contribute for all, some or none of the units appropriate to his increased salary, in excess of four:

(iii.) If the contributor was immediately before the increase contributing for four units or more, he may elect to contribute for all, some or none of the additional units appropriate to his increased salary.

(2) Where the salary of a contributor other than a contributor described in paragraphs (a) and (b) of subsection (1) of this section is increased so as to fall within a higher salary group as prescribed in section 24 of this Act, the contributor may elect to contribute for all, some or none of the units appropriate to his increased salary.
(3) An election under this section shall be made within two months after the day on which the salary at the increased rate is first paid.

24bb. (1) Every election shall be made by a written document delivered to the board.

(2) If an employee having the right to make an election does not make it within the prescribed period, he shall be deemed to have elected on the last day of the prescribed period to contribute for all the units for which he could have elected to contribute by that election.

24bc. Where the board is satisfied that a person has through inadvertence failed to make an election within the prescribed period, it may in its discretion accept an election made not more than three months after the end of the prescribed period.

24bd. (1) Subject to section 24bc, where a contributor—

(a) at any time before the enactment of this section has had the right to contribute for any units and has not elected to contribute for them, or has elected not to contribute for them; or

(b) after the enactment of this section has had the right to contribute for any units and has elected not to contribute for them; or

(c) has been exempted by the board from the obligation to contribute for any units, the number of units appropriate to his salary shall at all times be reduced by the number of the units for which he has not elected to contribute, or has elected not to contribute, or in respect of which he has been exempted from the obligation to contribute.

(2) Subject to subsection (3) of section 24b, and to section 24be, where an employee at any time before or after the enactment of this section has elected within the prescribed time after his appointment to contribute for no units, he shall not thereafter be entitled to become a contributor.

24be. Where an employee under twenty-one years of age is for any reason contributing for a number of units less than the units appropriate to his salary, or for no units, he may at any time not later than two months after attaining the age of twenty-one elect to contribute for any units, but so that the total number of units contributed for does not exceed the number appropriate to his salary at the time of making the last-mentioned election.

6. Section 24d of the principal Act is repealed.

7. Section 26 of the principal Act is amended so as to read as follows:

26. (1) If the salary of a contributor, by reason of his misconduct or default, is reduced from one salary group to another, and the contributor was before the reduction contributing for a number of units greater than the number appropriate to his reduced salary, the number of units for which he shall contribute after the reduction shall be reduced to the number appropriate to his reduced salary.

(2) If the salary of a contributor, for any reason other than his misconduct or default, is reduced from one salary group to another, and the contributor was before the reduction contributing for a number of units greater than the number appropriate to his reduced salary, the contributor may elect to reduce the number of units for which he will contribute as from the reduction of salary, to any number not less than the number appropriate to his reduced salary.

An election under this subsection shall be made within two months after the day on which salary at the reduced rate is first paid.

(3) The actuarial equivalent of any contributions previously paid by a contributor in respect of units in excess of the number as reduced under this section, shall be refunded to the contributor.

(4) When a salary is reduced as mentioned in this section any reduction made in the number of units contributed for shall take effect as from the first day of the month after the month in which salary at the reduced rate is first paid.
