(9) In an election for a district where two or more vacancies are to be filled those vacancies shall be filled in the following manner:

(a) The returning officer for the district shall determine a quota by dividing the total number of first preference votes cast at the election for the district by one more than the number of candidates required to be elected for the district and by increasing the quotient so obtained (disregarding any remainder) by one:

(b) Any candidate who has received a number of first preference votes equal to or greater than the quota so determined shall be elected:

(c) Where the number of first preference votes received by a candidate is equal to the quota, the whole of the ballot-papers containing those votes shall be set aside as finally dealt with:

(d) Unless all vacancies have been filled, the surplus votes of each elected candidate shall be transferred to the continuing candidates, in proportion to the voters' preferences, as follows:

(i) The returning officer shall divide the number of the elected candidate's surplus votes by the number of first preference votes (excluding any first preference votes indicated on ballot-papers which do not bear a next available preference for a continuing candidate) received by him and the resulting fraction shall, for the purposes of this clause, be the transfer value of that candidate's surplus votes:

(ii) The returning officer shall take all of the ballot-papers of the elected candidate on which a next available preference is indicated for a continuing candidate and arrange them in separate parcels for the continuing candidates according to the next available preference indicated on them:

(iii) The returning officer shall ascertain, from the parcel referred to in provision (ii) of this subparagraph in respect of each continuing candidate, the total number of ballot-papers of the elected candidate which bear the next available preference for that continuing candidate and shall, by multiplying that total by the transfer value of the elected candidate's surplus votes, determine the number of votes to be transferred from the elected candidate to each continuing candidate:

(iv) If, as a result of the multiplication, any fraction results, so many of those fractions, taken in the order of their magnitude, beginning with the largest, as are necessary to ensure that the number of votes transferred equals the number of the elected candidate's surplus votes shall be reckoned as of the value of unity and the remaining fractions shall be ignored:

(v) The returning officer shall then determine the number of ballot-papers to be transferred from the elected candidate to each continuing candidate:

(vi) The returning officer shall then, in respect of each continuing candidate, forthwith take at random, from the parcel referred to in provision (ii) of this subparagraph containing the ballot-papers of the elected candidate which bear the next available preference for that continuing candidate, the number of ballot-papers determined under provision (v) of this subparagraph and transfer those ballot-papers to the continuing candidate:

(vii) The ballot-papers containing the first preference votes of the elected candidate which have not been transferred (that is, the ballot-papers containing the number of votes equal to the quota) shall be set aside as finally dealt with:

(e) When the surplus votes of all elected candidates have been transferred to the continuing candidates as provided by subparagraph (d) of this paragraph, any continuing candidate who has received a number of votes equal to or greater than the quota shall be elected:

(f) Unless all the vacancies have been filled the surplus votes of the elected candidate shall be transferred to the continuing candidates in accordance with the provisions of subparagraph (d) of this paragraph, but, in the application of those provisions, only those ballot-papers which have been transferred to the elected candidate from a candidate previously elected shall be taken into consideration:

(g) If, as a result of the transfer of the surplus votes of a candidate elected in pursuance of subparagraph
(e) of this paragraph or elected at a later stage of the scrutiny, a continuing candidate has received a number of votes equal to or greater than the quota, he shall be elected:

(h) Unless all the vacancies have been filled the surplus votes of the elected candidate shall be transferred to the continuing candidates in accordance with the provisions of subparagraph (d) of this paragraph, but, in the application of those provisions, only those ballot-papers which have been transferred to the elected candidate from the candidate or candidates elected at the last preceding count shall be taken into consideration:

(i) The ballot-papers containing the first preference votes of a candidate who has been elected in pursuance of the provisions of subparagraph (e) or (g) of this paragraph, together with the ballot-papers transferred to him from a candidate previously elected or excluded which have not been further transferred shall be set aside as finally dealt with:

(j) If, after the transfer of the surplus votes of the elected candidates, no candidate has, or less than the number of candidates required to be elected have, received a number of votes equal to the quota, the candidate who has the fewest votes shall be excluded and the whole of his ballot-papers shall be transferred to the continuing candidates next in order of the voters' available preferences:

(k) If thereupon, or as the result of the exclusion of a candidate at any subsequent stage of the scrutiny, a continuing candidate has received a number of votes equal to or greater than the quota, he shall be elected:

(l) Unless all the vacancies have then been filled, the
the surplus votes of the elected candidate shall be transferred to the continuing candidates in accordance with the provisions of subparagraph (d) of this paragraph, but, in the application of those provisions, only those ballot-papers which have been transferred to the elected candidate from the candidate last excluded shall be taken into consideration:

(m) The ballot-papers containing the first preference votes of the elected candidate, together with the ballot-papers transferred to him from a candidate
previously elected or excluded which have not
been further transferred, shall be set aside as
finally dealt with:

(n) If no continuing candidate has then received a number of votes equal to the quota, the process of excluding the candidate with the fewest votes and the transferring of ballot-papers containing those votes to the continuing candidates shall be repeated until a continuing candidate has received a number of votes equal to the quota or, in respect of the last vacancy, a majority of the votes remaining in the count, but the process of excluding candidates shall not be repeated after the number of continuing candidates is equal to the number of unfilled vacancies:

(o) A ballot-paper that is, pursuant to the exclusion of a candidate, required to be transferred to a continuing candidate shall be set aside as finally dealt with if it does not indicate a next available preference for a continuing candidate:

(p) After all the candidates who have received a number of votes equal to the quota are elected—

(i) where there is one remaining unfilled vacancy—the candidate who has received a majority of the votes remaining in the count;

or

(ii) where the number of continuing candidates is equal to the number of remaining unfilled vacancies—those candidates, shall be elected;

(q) Where, on the count of the first preference votes, or at the same time at any subsequent stage of the scrutiny, two or more candidates are elected by reason of their having received a number of votes equal to or greater than the quota, any transfer of the surplus votes of those candidates shall be carried out in the order, first of the candidate with the largest surplus, second of the candidate with the next largest surplus and so on:

(r) Notwithstanding anything contained in this paragraph, a transfer of the surplus votes of an elected candidate shall be deferred (but without affecting the order of that transfer) so long as the total number of those surplus votes and any other surplus votes not transferred is less than the difference between the total votes of the two continuing candidates with the fewest votes, and in such case unless all vacancies have been filled, the candidate with the fewest votes shall be first excluded and the ballot-papers containing his votes shall be transferred to the continuing candidates as provided in subparagraph (s) of this paragraph:

(s) If, on any count, two or more candidates have an equal number of votes, and one of them has to be excluded, the returning officer shall, by lot, determine which of those candidates is to be excluded:
(1) If, at the time of their election, two or more candidates have an equal number of votes that is more than the quota, the returning officer shall, for the purposes of subparagraph (q) of this paragraph, by lot, determine which of those candidates is to be deemed to have had the larger or largest surplus:

(2) If, on the final count for filling the last vacancy, two candidates have an equal number of votes, the returning officer shall, by lot, determine which of those candidates is to be elected.

(j) by striking out from subparagraph (a) of paragraph (12) the passage “or, as the case may be, the number of first preference votes counted to each group”;
