(a) disability services; and

(b) research or development activities.

(2) For the purposes of subsection (1), money may be granted—

(a) to any person, body or authority, including any government, non-government or local government body or authority; or

(3) In performing his or her functions under this section, the Minister must seek to further the objects of this Act.

Obligations on service providers and researchers funded under this Act

5. (1) A provider of disability services or researcher funded under this Act must, in providing the services or carrying out the research or development activities, apply the principles and meet the objectives set out in the schedules to this Act.

(2) The Minister may, as a condition of approving funding under this Act, require the person, body or authority to whom the money is to be granted to enter into a performance agreement containing such terms and conditions as the Minister thinks will ensure compliance with subsection (1).

(3) An agreement under this section must be in writing and signed by both parties.

(4) The Minister should include in such an agreement a condition or conditions that will enable the Minister to monitor adequately the other party’s performance under the agreement.

Consultation with persons with disabilities and carers

SCHEDULE 1

Principles

1. Persons with disabilities, whatever the origin, nature or degree of their disabilities might be, are individuals—

(a) who have the inherent right to respect for their human worth and dignity; and

(b) who have the same fundamental human rights and responsibilities as other members of the Australian community; and

(c) who have the same right as other members of the Australian community to realise their potential for intellectual, physical, social, emotional, sexual and spiritual development; and

(d) who have the same right as other members of the Australian community to choose their own lifestyle and generally to control their own lives.

2. Persons with disabilities have a right to protection from neglect, abuse, intimidation and exploitation.

3. Persons with disabilities have the same right as other members of the Australian community to the assistance and support that will enable them to exercise their rights, discharge their responsibilities and attain a reasonable quality of life.

4. In receiving the services that supply such assistance and support, persons with disabilities—

(a) have the right to choose between those services, and to choose between the options available within a particular service, so as to provide assistance and support that best meets their individual (including cultural) needs; and

(b) have the right to have those services provided in a manner that—

(i) involves the least restriction of their rights and opportunities; and

(ii) takes into account their individual needs, goals, age and other personal circumstances; and

(iii) takes into account any further disadvantage that may be suffered as a result of their gender, ethnic origin, aboriginality, financial situation or location; and

(c) have the right to pursue any grievance in relation to those services without fear of the discontinuance of services or of recriminations or retribution from service providers.
SCHEDULE 2

Objectives

1. Disability services are to be designed and administered so as—

(a) to achieve positive outcomes for persons with disabilities, such as an enhanced image and level of competence, increased independence, increased education, training and employment opportunities and integration into, and participation in the life of, the community; and

(b) to ensure that the conditions of the day-to-day life of persons with disabilities are as close as possible to those of other members of the community; and

(c) to meet the individual needs and goals of the persons to whom the services are provided taking into account their age and other personal circumstances and any further disadvantage suffered as a result of their gender, ethnic origin, aboriginality, financial situation or location; and

(d) to ensure that no single service provider exercises control over all or most of the aspects of the life of a person with a disability; and

(e) to render the service provider accountable to all persons who use the service, the carers and advocates of persons with disabilities who use the service, the Minister and all other interested persons, through the provision of information relating to the services provided and their administration; and

(f) to ensure that the persons to whom the services are provided have their right to privacy and confidentiality respected; and

(g) to ensure that persons with disabilities who wish to use the services have easy access to advocacy support to facilitate their use of the services and their participation in any decision making relating to their use of the services; and

(h) to ensure that appropriate avenues exist for the persons who use the services to raise and have resolved any grievance they may have in relation to a service or the manner in which it is administered; and

(i) to allow, to the extent that is practicable, the persons who use the services the opportunity for informed participation in the design, development, management and evaluation of the services.

2. Disability services are to be provided as part of local coordinated service systems and are to be integrated, where it is appropriate and practicable to do so, with services generally available to the community.

3. The providers of disability services are to take the following matters into consideration in determining eligibility for and priority of access to the services and in assessing the needs of a person with a disability who is accorded access to a service:

(a) the person's wishes;
the level of disability and its impact on the person;

the needs and capabilities of any carers;

the extent of support and assistance (if any) provided or available to the person from all other sources;

the implications of any decision for carers and members of the person's family;

such other matters as may be considered relevant.

In the name and on behalf of Her Majesty, I hereby assent to this Bill.
