The New Opera Company is to change its name to the State Opera of South Australia, the Premier, Mr. Dunstan, announced today.

The decision has been approved by the State Government and the name was registered this week.

"The change of name is a turning point for the Company", Mr. Dunstan said.

"It signifies the very important role this professional Company plays in Australia".

"It is a Company of world standard, and its achievements are admired internationally.

"The New Opera was formed three years ago, and since then it has attracted to South Australia singers, directors and designers from the rest of the country and from overseas.

"It has performed regularly in Adelaide with a vigorous and imaginative repertoire.

"Its change of name will give it a much closer identification with the State of South Australia, and will also indicate the role it will play in the future in embracing a wide cross section of operatic activities.

"In the light of the cutbacks by the Australian Opera, the State Opera of South Australia faces a great challenge", Mr. Dunstan said the State Opera of South Australia was heavily funded by the State Government. Subsidies this year amounted to more than $200,000.
