The State Government would give all the financial help it could to ensure that Australian swimmers kept their place as the world's best, the Premier, Mr. Dunstan, said tonight.

He was opening the State Swimming Championships in Adelaide.

Mr. Dunstan said the Government had spent more than $400,000 in subsidies for swimming pool development over the past five years.

Under a new policy the Government was now willing to subsidise the building of olympic-size pools by local authorities where they were located to serve the secondary schools of the area.

The subsidies were on a dollar for dollar basis up to $80,000.

The Premier said one such subsidy had already been approved for the Marion Council.

Another local authority in the metropolitan area had had its project approved in principle and there had been another fifteen inquiries from other local government bodies.

"This policy ensures that we have a sensible investment in community swimming facilities - one that serves the children of an area and the community generally at weekends and outside school hours.

"Eventually we intend that every community and secondary school in the State will have access to a pool of the highest standard", the Premier said.
