EXCAVATION CALENDAR

Two requests have reached me from persons wishing to participate in archaeological excavations:

Ms Gael Ramsay (89 Perrott St., Armidale, NSW 2350) has just completed an MA at Auckland and has considerable experience in site recording.

Mr T.J. Gara (28 Swift Ave., Dulwich, SA 5065) is enrolled currently for an MA at Adelaide. He may be required to carry out excavations as part of his research, but requires more field experience first.

I shall be excavating two sites on Kangaroo Island from mid-November until just before Christmas, and may continue in the New Year. Both are open workshop/campsites in which elements of the Kartan industry lie stratified. Trial excavations conducted earlier this year explored the stratigraphy, and yielded a sample of the industry as well as suitable material for carbon dating. However a larger sample of the stone industry and the pattern of its horizontal distribution are sought from more extensive excavations. I would like to hear from about six fairly self-reliant diggers, equipped with their own camping gear, etc. Please reply to Mr R.J. Lampert, Department of Prehistory, Research School of Pacific Studies, ANU, PO Box 4, Canberra ACT 2600.

Contributions covering a wide range of archaeological interests are sought, but some special categories are:-

Fieldwork Calendar This is designed to put researchers about to depart on fieldwork in touch with other members who may be able to render assistance, such as labour on an excavation, or who would simply like to visit a site for the sake of interest. Fieldworkers are asked to send in full details of their project, including location, dates, research aims and an indication as to whether visits to the site by other members are practical.

Employment opportunities Situations vacant and wanted will be listed if the information is sent in.

Research reports Summaries of research in various fields by correspondents.

Bibliography A list of current publications.

Notes and Comments A section for general discussion and expression of opinion.
