Trench warfare

Kenwood House:

an autumn Wednesday,

woods tame and endless, mild grey sky where I wandered, hopeful, one November in the belted trenchcoat that felt matronly

(from a dive in unfamiliar downtown Sydney) but of course wasn’t on a twenty-something

First time in London where I’d lived in my head since I could read

This time, more dogs than I recall, otherwise the same the barrel-vaulted Stewards’ Room rendering glamorous cheese and pickle, a pot of tea, my heart bursting from my chest

Still happy when we all meet at the Lion a drink then The IT Crowd on TV the others under the weather (under it, for good or ill, every day today, held under, as by a mean kid at the beach)

Another time, we stride it out to Swiss Cottage, where Swiss Tony doesn’t live, find the gym and pool in the community centre

The day is brighter, Anna home sick. We stop at the new Camden Arts gallery check, then forget work email Euroboy Gabe claims now to prefer Spain to his native land. He shows us his climbing wall. He’ll be at our reading at Australia House, common territory for now

In Russell Square Garden cafe select poems to read

Warm again.

Drifting back to Karin Mamma Anderssen’s lovely Camden paintings spiky pines barricading or guarding a wintering house pumpkin and beetroot tones in warm, cluttered interiors

We bought a gift for Tom in the bookshop:

YoshitomoNara: ‘AngryGirl:NothingEver Happens’

Cath Kenneally. ‘Trench Warfare’ and ‘split or stay’.
Transnational Literature Vol. 11 no. 1, November 2018. threatening faux-naïf big faces he will like angry boy arming himself with art

Angry sister ponders the decades:

waves of nostalgia swamping the Heath, inundating Camden percolating up in noxious bubbles from my ill-sealed Underground ride it, all you can do hold on to your sou’wester belt your raincoat tight the underrated art of straphanging split or stay?

Split, an ordinary afternoon, observed from a bollard, a place to stay being sought and found at one esplanade agency after another

We can have the Mihanovic apartment, but I have a bad head by now suave Maria lets us in, I lie down, the others go out for a meal

Diocletian’s city leaves me cold, though that could be the headache a certain kind of migraine - the ‘white’ variety – that chills the extremities douses enthusiasm, certainly maybe tomorrow

(ah, Chrissie, always ready to drop a line)

Yuri and Bianca remain in Hvar, already I miss those crazy chimneys

I look out across the courtyard, waiting for the diners-out with takeaway

I see this block houses a Gynaecologist and a Friseur would a friseur do massage or hair?

The wanderers return with food and the story of the surly waiter who denies the existence of all the drinks on the menu No Negroni - ‘whatever that is!’ - and brings cappuccino instead of Campari in this house of a dozen beds we each choose one to lie in the pillows of sparkling Dalmatia beneath our heads the citizens still bent beneath the yoke of Empire descendants of Roman legionaries serving Cokes adding a spit of poison where they can
